

Security Dedicated to You

Potential Risk: Many service providers offer security solutions that rely on a connection shared with other services. If you have ever had your cable go out, power go out or internet go down then you have experienced a time when your system would not have worked.

Make sure you are covered when you need it most. Get a dedicated connection and stay protected.

Dedicated Connection:
Cellular

✓ Securely connected

- Dedicated to security
- 24 hr. protect in power outage
- Always-on protection
- Defeats common vulnerabilities
- Independent, reliable and secure

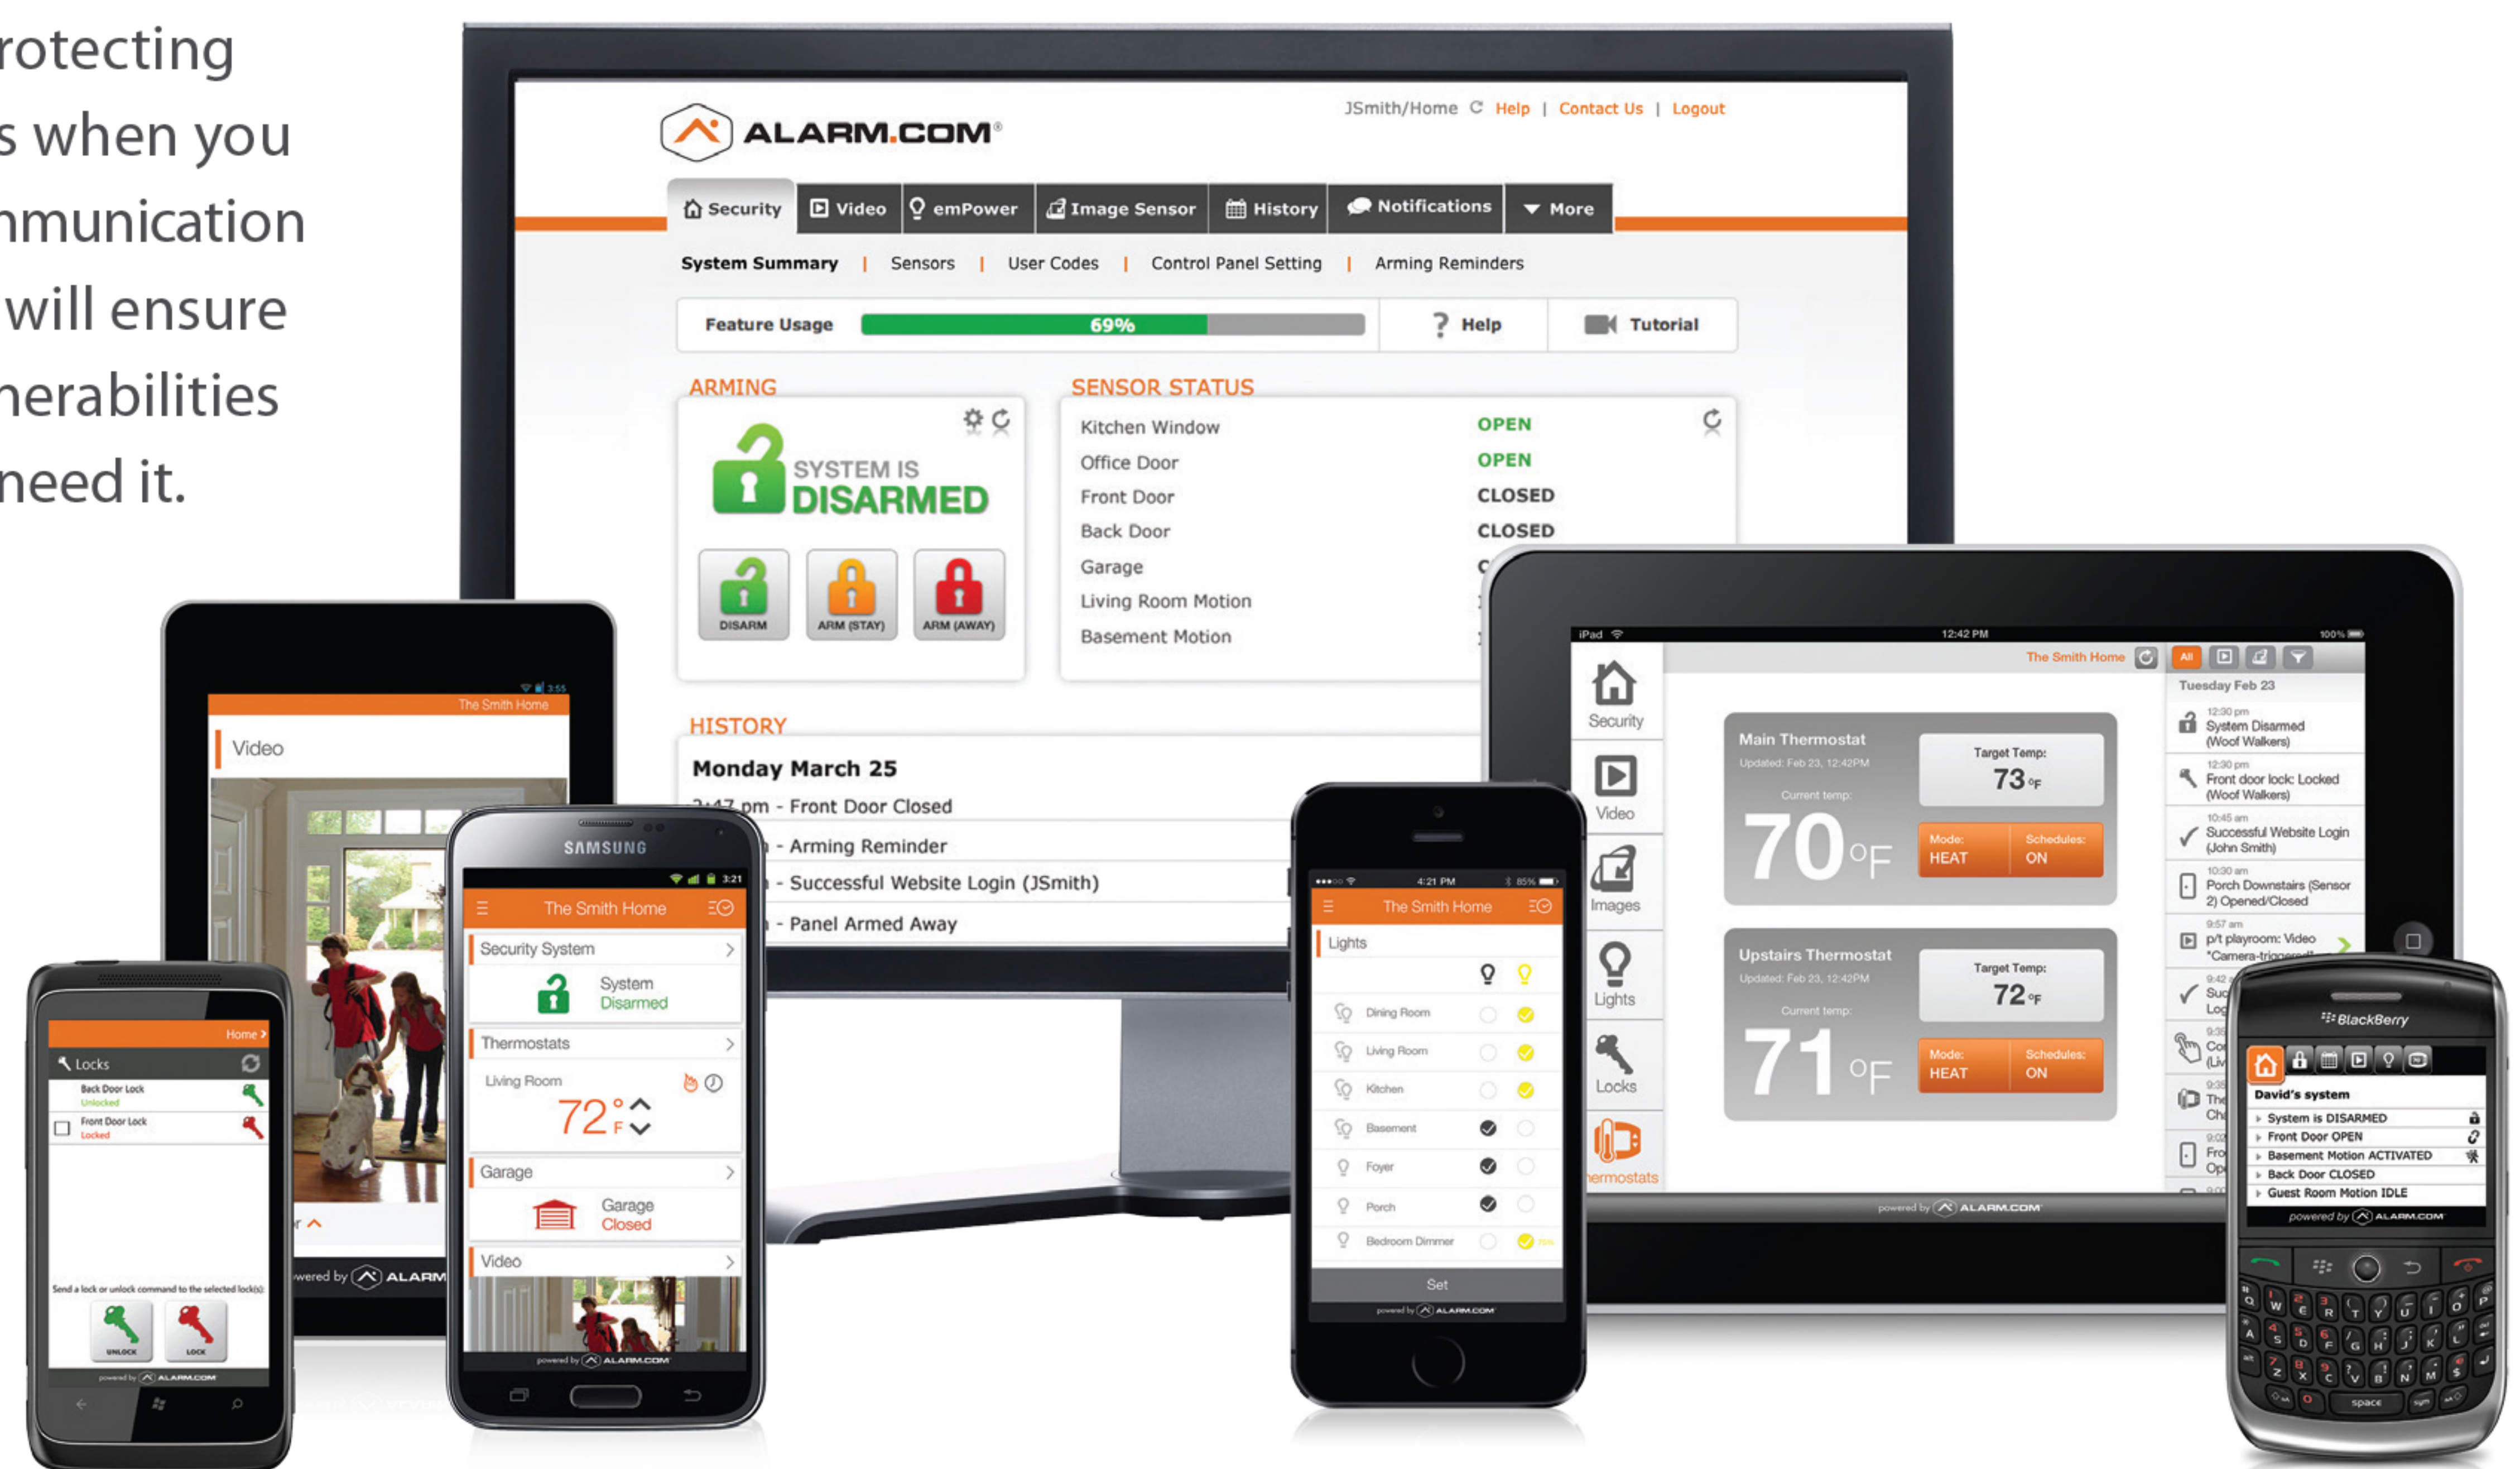

Shared Connection:
Wifi and Broadband

✗ Leaves you exposed

- Shared with many other services
- Most services disabled by power outage
- Disrupted when internet is down
- Exposed to external line cut
- Dependent on Internet provider

If you are going to invest in protecting your home make sure it works when you need it. Having a dedicated communication path for your security system will ensure you cover these common vulnerabilities and stay protected when you need it.

Security should be reliable, secure and dedicated to your protection. You have a choice; choose a security system that will actually work.

Most providers don't offer a truly secure connection. Be aware of where you may be exposed or have limited capability depending on your connection services.

Important Note: A dedicated connection for your security and energy management services not only provides the best protection, it also gives you the freedom to change internet providers without disturbing the safety and comfort of your home.
